INTRO / BIO

I'm Giacomo Bisaro, videomaker / sound designer. After graduating in audiovisual composition at the Conservatorio G. Tartini of Trieste, I've been doing freelance video and audio works, from corporate to artistic productions.

I'm also involved as a video editor in a music label called Ghost City Collective, making videos, teasers and developing visuals for the artists and their releases.

I work with passion in every project I'm involved in. When filming, I love capturing images and moments, always trying to improve my ability to take the best shot possible. I'm never looking for the "perfect" shot, but for an image that talks and conveys the right feeling and mood to the whole project. The same applies to working with audio, even if it's just selecting the right moment of a song or setting the balance in the mix. I like giving sounds the right body, dimension and space.

Ever since my years of studying, I've always been helping others to solve software or hardware issues, or giving creative or technical tips and suggestions. I've also built software tools (using Max, Processing) or hardware utilities to suit my and other artists creative and/or technical needs.
